Follow the directions given - .doc (97-2003) format ONLY.

Submit Assignment

If you are ready to turn in an assignment, you may upload it for grading by using the form below.

- Please make sure the filename is simple and does not contain any obscure characters. The recommended convention that works best with DIAL is the course number and the assignment number. For example, SR953.1.doc is an acceptable filename.
- Click "Browse" to locate the file on your local hard drive.
- Click "Submit" to upload the assignment; please be patient as this may take several minutes.
- Note that the DIAL Server does not currently support Microsoft Office 2007 documents. When saving a homework assignment, for transmission to Oxford, save it as a Word 97-2003 document, the third choice down in the menu. Saving it in this format (.doc) is compatible with DIAL while saving it simply as Word document (.docx), your first choice in Microsoft Word 2007, is not yet supported by DIAL.

You can tell if your document is saved in the proper format for submission through DIAL by looking for the "extension" of the document. All documents saved in 97-2003 will end in ".doc". Those saved in 2007 will end in ".docx". The .docx files are not compatible with DIAL. If you have a file you desire to submit to DIAL in the .docx file format, simply open the document and re-save it in the 97-2003 format, as a .doc file.
